CAMERON, CASTLES & STOREY,

—WHOLESALE—

Grocers and Druggists
WACO, TEXAS

The method of handling our Customers' Cotton without commission having proved so entirely satisfactory last year, has influenced us in adopting the same plan for the coming season.

We will receive and promptly dispose of, for account, all consignments from our customers—free of all commissions—guaranteeing them the very best possible classifications and highest market prices.

Waco's immense Cotton receipts last year and her advance of 1-2c to 3-4c over other markets in the State, established her beyond all doubt, as THE Cotton market of Texas.

There are several reasons to be assigned for the belief that the receipts for the season beginning September 1, 1885, will be equally as large—if not larger—than the shipments of the previous year. We have now located with us resident Spinners' Agents, who have direct connections with the East and Europe, which virtually throws the Cotton immediately into first hands, thus obviating the heavy expenses, low classifications, delays and increase of freight rates resulting from shipments made through commission merchants.

Our three competitive Railroads afford the finest transportation facilities, and insure us lower through and local rates to and from Waco than any other point in the State.

In conclusion, we would especially call the attention of our friends to our increased and carefully selected stock, which has received our closest attention in readiness for the large FALL trade, which is now fairly upon us, our facilities for handling our goods with promptness and safety, and our guarantee to make every transaction mutually satisfactory as well as profitable.

Thanking our customers for their past patronage and soliciting a liberal continuance of same, we remain,

Yours faithfully,
CAMERON, CASTLES & STOREY.

ROUMELIA'S REVOLT.

What an American Thinks of It.

London, September 21.—An interview had on Tuesday last at Constantinople with Idris Pasha, an American institution on the Bosphorus, is published to-day in connection with the news respecting the insurrection in eastern Roumelia and shows singularly aptly on the part of foreign representatives in Constantinople in not notifying their respective governments of the matter, constantly heard of the then approaching rising.

Mr. Washburn, who has just returned from his two months' tour of Bulgaria and Roumelia, says he heard more talk of a union among the people of Roumelia than I did in Bulgaria. The question of a union was constantly forced upon the Roumelians by the increasing material interests and the burden of supporting two governments which considerably oppressed the people, and besides, their industries were injured in Roumelia, and sometimes totally destroyed by custom houses artificially dividing the frontier between Roumelia and Bulgaria, and the people's preventing free-trade between the two states. If the present state of affairs continues it will inevitably make trouble in Europe, Roumelians are grateful to Russia for giving them independence, they have since bitterly resented several attempts by Russian agents to control the administration. I think the Bulgarians have a perfect right to their independence, and would ally themselves with Russia, rather than with Austria against Roumelia. The Roumelians are steadily at work building roads and railways and making other public improvements. It is considered strange, in view of the fact that Mr. Washburn appears to be so acquainted with the disaffection of the people of eastern Roumelia, after a two months' trip, that some diplomat appeared surprised at the news of the insurrection.

How Austria Views the Situation.

Vienna, September 21.—An inspired article in the Fremden Blatt appears to be so acquainted with the disaffection of the people of eastern Roumelia, after a two months' trip, that some diplomat appeared surprised at the news of the insurrection.

Germany and Spain Adjust Matters.

Madrid, September 21.—A bitter feeling prevails here, owing to the report having been received from Count Benomar, ambassador of Berlin, to the effect that he expects Germany will accept the offer of a naval coalition station, thereby depriving Spain of navigation among the Caroline Islands, as a basis of settlement of the dispute, which will be made without referring the matter to an arbitrator.

Spain's Cholera Report.

Madrid, September 21.—During the past twenty-four hours 182 new cases of cholera and 123 deaths were reported.

Cook's Unfortunate Mystery.

London, September 21.—A mysterious raid was made last night on Carlisle Fort, one of the defenses of the city. All that can be learned of the affair at present is that a party of men seized four men and a woman, and after a night and got away with them without disturbing the garrison. A secretary on duty close to the spot where the men were kept did not see any one and stated that he heard no unusual noise. The police are aiding the military in the search for the raiders but as yet no clue to their whereabouts has been obtained.

Destructive Prairie Fires in Dakota.

JAMESDOW, D. T., September 21.—The devastation by prairie fires from Fargo to Bismarck far surpasses the destruction of any previous year. Hundreds of wheat crops were swept out of existence Saturday and Sunday. The amount of wheat burned in north Dakota during the past week is immense and it is estimated that the entire crops of one hundred farmers have been destroyed.
